To whom it may concern,

With the popularity of the secret art of ninjitsu on the rise, there are dozens of martial artists appearing to present themselves as experts on the ways of the ninja.

However, the fact is that there are only two genuine non-oriental ninja known to the world today, and one of them lives in Japan. The other is Frank Dux.

Dux is a professional consultant in the field of martial arts, a full-contact kumite champion and the instructor of some impressive students. He is also expert at setting up (and performing) stunts of all kinds--both real and illusory.

There are other martial artists who will insist they are familiar with ninjitsu, but if it is important to have access to the real thing, Frank Dux is your man.

If it is important to discuss this further, you may contact me at the address on our letterhead.

Sincerely,

John Stewart

To whom it may concern,

Frank Dux is an extremely unusual individual whose skills and experiences are exceptional in a number of ways. BLACK BELT magazine has conducted a lengthy series of interviews with Mr. Dux, and it is the opinion of the editor that:

1) Dux is highly skilled in a number of martial arts and has mastered some extremely unusual techniques, many of which may never be seen by the general public.

2) Dux is a fully knowledgeable consultant on the details of such subjects as full-contact fighting, breaking objects, weapons technique, and anti-terrorism.

3) He has had military experience of an unique nature.

While this magazine ordinarily does not act as an agency for the verification of skills or credentials, in this case we happen to know that the above statements are true. If there is any more specific information regarding this person that you require, you may call or write the editor at the address on our letterhead.
